DETAILED ACTION

In response to remarks filed 10/31/2007

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3, 6-10 and 21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 6-8, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wu (US 6,467,109). Wu discloses a hammock stand comprising four legs (4), four support rods (2, 3) to which a hammock is coupled, and a pair of cross braces (1), wherein the legs and the support rods are coupled to each other on respective ends of the hammock stand via respective cross braces such that the cross braces, without being uncoupled from the legs and support rods and upon folding of the hammock stand are capable of forcing a movement in which two of the four legs approximate each other in a front-to-back and side-to-side motion (see figures 3-5) as two of the support rods pivot towards each other, and wherein the second of the four legs is coupled to the first of the support rods via a connector rod (5) that releasably engages with the first of the support rods and forms an obtuse angle with the second of the four legs when the hammock stand is in an open configuration (see examiner's attachment).

With regards to claim 2, a first and second of the four legs are rotatably coupled to each other (through members 3).

Regarding claim 3, a first support rod is rotatably coupled to the first of the four legs and wherein a second of the support rods is rotatably coupled to the second of the four legs (see examiner's attachment).

With regards to claim 6, the cross braces in the pair of cross braces are rotatably coupled to each other (through members 2, 3), and wherein at least one of the cross braces is rotatably coupled to the first of the four legs, and rotatably coupled to a third of the support rods (see examiner's attachment).

In regards to claim 7, the hammock is coupled to at least two of the four support rods via a hook (60).

Regarding claim 8, Wu discloses a flexible element (8) that couples the first of the four legs with a third of the four legs and that facilitates collapsing of the hammock stand when the flexible element is pulled upwards relative to the ground and when the hammock stand is in an open configuration.

With regards to claim 21, Wu discloses a hammock stand comprising four legs (4), four support rods (2, 3) to which a hammock is coupled, and a pair of cross braces (1), wherein the legs and the support rods are coupled to each other on respective ends of the hammock stand via respective cross braces such that the cross braces, without being uncoupled from the legs and support rods and upon folding of the hammock stand are capable of forcing a movement in which two of the four legs approximate each other in a front-to-back and side-to-side motion (see figures 3-5) as two of the support rods pivot towards each other, and wherein the second of the four legs is coupled to the first of the support rods via a connector rod (5), wherein the pair of cross braces are rotatably coupled to each other (through members 2, 3), and wherein at least one of the cross braces is rotatably coupled to the first of the four legs, and rotatably coupled to a third of the support rods (see examiner's attachment).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 9-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wu (US 6,467,109) in view of Bien (US 3,464,069). Wu discloses the invention of claim 8. However, Wu does not teach wherein the flexible element comprises a sheet of fabric. It would have been obvious to make the net of Wu a sheet of fabric as an alternative expedient for support. Therefore, it would have been obvious to modify the invention to Wu as specified in claim 9.

In regards to claim 10, the sheet of fabric inherently comprises a handle (anywhere where one can grab said sheet).
